Preliminary to National Amateur Championship Attracts Hig Crowd to Chicago Links-Egan Beats Travis on Strokes, but They Finish Even on Holes.

WHEATON, Ill., Aug. 7 -There were twelve eams in the interassociation match for the Olympic trophy put up by the Western Golf Association on the course of the Chicago Golf Club to-day. The contest was a pre-liminary to the amateur championship and brought out the pick of the men who are strive for national honors to-morrow. The leading teams in the morning round vere the Western Pennsylvania, 326; Metropolitan Golf Association, 328, and Western Golf Association, 330. Three of the Pitts-burgers scored 235 in the morning, and had not George A. Ormiston, who put out Travis in the last national championship, needed of they would have had a lead that could not possibly have been overcome. As it was any of the three teams had a show to win out on the concluding half of the thirty-six holes. The Pittsburgers held their own, however, to the last and increased the lead in the afternoon, winning the trophy.

H. Chandler Egan and Walter J. Travis played together as the heads of their respective teams. It was the first time the two had golfed together, either as partners or oppo-ients, and the juxtaposition of the two sectional champions created great interest. There were 500 to 600 to follow the pair, and There were soo to soo to follow the pair, and although non-partizan in their applause the majority had seen "Chan," as they term him, rise from a junior player to national champion, and their hearts were with him. Egan was in white, even to his silk socks and shees, and Travis wore a dark suit, white hat and green necktie.

Although only the preliminary, there were more onlookers on the links than at any final in the East this year. Besides the walkers, the first tee was at the apex of a V, formed by seats filled with other onlookers, who applauded every good start, in spite of frequent warnings to keep still from the starter, Tom Bendelow, and the Western Golf Association officials, Alan L. Reid and Crafts W. Higgins, who had charge for the Golf Association officials, Alan D. Reid and Crafts W. Higgins, who had charge for the day.

In the morning Chandler Egan had only one really bad hole, the infteenth, where he drove short and was bunkered on the second for a 6. His drives were often wild, but always iong, barring this instance, and the short game superb. He had a 3 on the 804 yard fourteenth hole. Travia was high and short from several tees and topped the brasey shot on the geventeenth besides being in the rough often. He always gave a chance to his puts and while steady was not especially lucky on the greens.

The champion led Travis by two strokes in the morning, their totals being 77 to 79. In the afternoon Egan was playing somewhat off, taking fours on the two short holes, and fravis led him by three strokes at the sixteenth. Now Egan laid a full iron shot from the rough so close up that he had a 3 on the 344 yard seventeenth hole, while Travis, who had also to play from out of the rough, took 3 to get the green and 6 for the hole. Both had fives on the home hole, so they broke even with 82.

The seventeenth set the issue against Travis. For the day Egan led Travis by two strokes. By hole play Egan was 3 up in the morning and Travis 3 up in the afternoon, so they were even in this respect. Travis has still to be downed on a thirty-six hole match, even by Chan.

The best individual score on the Metropolitan team was 80, 79—159, by Fred Herreschoff, last year's runner up in the National. The very best score of the day was 156 by Er. Fredericks of the Western Pennsylvania team and last year's semi-finalist, and W. C. Fownes, Jr., of the same team did 159. The team scores follow:

Western Pennsylvania Association—W. C. Fownes, Jr., 78, 14-159; D. P. Fredericks, 79, 77—156; D. P. Fredericks, 79, 77—156; D. P. Fredericks, 79, 77—157; D. D. P. Frederick

B. Bush, Audubon Golf Club, New Orleans.

H. C. Egan had wished to have Ned Sawyer on the Western tean, but he was over ruled The Chicago folks were saying that this substitution might change the final placing of the teams. Jerome Travers spoiled his afternoen card by beginning with a 7 nad then taking 9 for the fourth, getting bunkered into an unplayable place and not having good luck in trying to play back. L. T. Boyd of Wisconsin team, was prostrated by the heat and the Wolverines withdrew.

Professional golf hereabouts has come to stay. With the recent Van Cortlandt Park ocal follower of the sport the promoters. arranged to make this meeting an annua The new executive committee elected the following officers:

Charles Kirchner, president; J. H. O'Connell, first vice-president; William Freeland, second vice-president; William H. Beers, treasurer; H. E. Pyrke, secretary.

At the meeting the officials voted to have the next gathering of the pros known as the World's Open Professional Golf Tourna-ment, and the dates July 11 and 12, 1906, were set aside. The reason for giving the affair a world's title was explained last night by one of the officials, who said:

"According to present plans James Braid, open champion of Great Britain: Harry Varsext summer, and we intend to have thes Dlayers take part along with the strongest resident professionals. We expect to have about $1,000 in prizes. Since the Van Cort-landt tournament several offers have been landt tournament several offers have been received from prominent clubs willing to handle the event, so that, if for any reason deemed advisable by the committee, the tournament might easily be transferred to a private links."

Apropos of the professional tourney to be held at Deal on Thursday and Friday of this week, it may be said that the Scots are not going to take any chances of being caught out of condition. Two of the best known players in the country, Open Champion Will Anderson and Alec Smith, ran down to the shore yesterday afternoon, where they intend to stay for the remainder of the week. Other entrants are going down to-dar, and the entire field will be on hand by to-morrow afternoon. Those who have played over the course recently say they never saw it in better shape. Plot of Five Lots at Breadway and 151st Street Changes Hands-Rest of the Brokerage Budget Made Up of Small Deals in Flat and Tenement Houses.

Trading in realty was extremely quiet yesterday. No business was done in the Vesey street auction room and only some half a dozen private sales were reported. The brokerage transactions were fewer in number than they had been on any preceding day this summer. However, realty dealing is usually at its lowest ebb during August, and its volume yesterday during August, and its volume yesterday was notably small only by comparison with the extraordinary activity which has prevailed so far this year.

As a matter of fact, brokers find little inducement just now to take up fresh negotiations. Owners are in many instances advancing prices. In spite of the great amount of construction work undertaken last spring, the supply of housing remains short, rents are being raised, and professional dealers as well as others who have property to sell look for higher freshold values. On the other hand, the number of possible investment buyers is much reduced during the vacation period, which makes it difficult to secure at present a competition sufficiently spirited to realize competition sufficiently spirited to realize the new prices quoted.
